Fayetteville, AR—The Inn at Carnall Hall, located on the campus of the University of Arkansas, recently received the honor of hosting His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama.

While speaking at the University of Arkansas to promote non-violence, His Holiness the Dalai Lama and his entourage made the Inn at Carnall Hall their home away from home. “The hotel’s prepared staff were honored to host and meet such an iconic figure,” says T.J. Angeleno, Area Director of Operations with Vista Host. The hotel and staff was also commended by the US government officials onsite for His Holiness’ protection.

“The Inn at Carnall Hall took every precaution to ensure His Holiness’ comfort and safety, designating an entire floor and private meal times to accommodate his schedule,” says Angeleno. The Inn also hosted several private lecture series during his visit.

The Dalai Lama is just one of many prominent people to have stayed at the Inn at Carnall Hall while in Fayetteville. Since joining the National Register of Historic Places in 1982, the Inn has hosted celebrities such as Queen Latifah, dignitaries such as George H.W. Bush and past Prime Minister of Israel Ehud Olmert, and commentators Terry Jones and Anderson Cooper.

The Inn at Carnall Hall in Fayetteville is under a management consultation agreement with Vista Host; a Houston-based management company for upscale boutique and limited feature hotel properties. Vista Host manages 24 hotels across the United States. For more information about Vista Host, please visit www.VistaHost.com.
